

Wednesday, March 31

Indifference leads to silence. There must be words for those who care.
Ignorance leads to silence. There must be records of past and present cruelties done in the world, so that each generation can remember— not only the evil of the past, but also the glowing goodness, the courage and decency, which existed in the darkest days.

Elie Weisel and Albert H. Friedlander